Maynard Akkerman, President and CEO of Akkerman Inc., was officially welcomed on May 6, 2009 as a member of The Moles, a prominent heavy construction fraternal organization.

Established in 1938, membership into The Moles is limited to 550 individuals who are engaged in specific sectors of the construction industry and have obtained a heightened level of accomplishment within their industry. Each year, the group holds four annual events in the New York metropolitan area and bestows two awards to recognize individuals for outstanding achievement.

On his induction into The Moles, Maynard states, "It's an honor to be nominated to this esteemed group. At this stage in my career, it's important to me to further the good work of the trenchless industry. Association with The Moles will help me in this endeavor."

Since 1973, Akkerman Inc. manufactures distinctive microtunneling, pipe jacking, tunneling, guided boring and earth pressure balance equipment. Akkerman equipment is widely distributed in the national and international markets.
